6.0 BEFORE & AFTER

quality workmanship

Grange Banks is committed to maintaining a high degree of quality at every stage of the painting process. We achieve this by paying special attention to the following factors:

- Highest quality products and suppliers
- Attention to detail at all stages of the process
- Fully trained staff
- Dedicated business development managers and project managers for each job
- Proven track record fulfilling the needs of large organisations
- An awareness of environmental issues and sustainable practices

7.0 OUR CERTIFICATIONS

excellence through accreditation

Grange Banks is proud to be a part of PCCP certification program that was started as joint initiative between the Commonwealth (as a major owner of assets and infrastructure) and industry.

As certified PCCP contractors we demonstrate compliance with certain defined minimum performance standards - quality systems, satisfied customers, skilled and experienced personnel.
Grange Banks is committed to the safeguard of our environment both as a result of our actions and through the choices of the products we use.

All projects are viewed and costed to minimise our impact on the environment by ensuring that our management and tradepersons always consider factors such as:

- Responsible disposal of waste on all projects
- Taking appropriate action to ensure no waste materials enters waterways, storm water drains, or other sensitive systems
- Ensuring safe, non-hazardous collection and conversion of liquid waste products
- Specifying wherever possible ZERO Volatile Organic Compound (VOC) paint in our applications

It should be noted that by its very nature, electrostatic painting is an inherently environmentally friendly process when compared to other painting methods due to its 95% transfer efficiency to substrates.

Our electrostatic painting process averages 95% transfer efficiency to substrates - meaning its more environmentally friendly than our competitors!
an impeccable safety record

Grange Banks has an impeccable safety record thanks to a range of systems and procedures that ensure our staff carries out its duties with a “safety first” attitude at all times.

Grange Banks complies with all statutory and regulatory obligations – in particular the Occupational Health and Safety Act (2004).

In line with this, we ensure that we:

- Provide necessary training for managers and employees to safely carry out their duties
- Work to avoid accidents or incidents and fully investigate, remedy those that may occur
- Monitor equipment, vehicles, plant and workplaces in the pursuit of safety

A copy of our Health & Safety Policy is issued to each operative prior to commencement. A copy can be obtained at any time from our office.

Additionally, we conduct monthly toolbox OH&S meetings with our personnel to address current safety issues, review our performance, and discuss any continuous improvement items as a team.

All Grange Banks employees:

- Observe relevant laws and regulations
- Follow safe operating procedures and practices
- Adhere to the no smoking policy and ensure a drug and alcohol free workplace
- Assist the efforts of the local OH&S committee

The joint co-operation of all will ensure we are successful in looking after each other.

TOOLBOX MEETINGS

We conduct monthly toolbox OH&S meetings with our personnel to address current safety issues, review our performance, and discuss any continuous improvement items as a team.
